

lerici

Lerici è il nome di una splendida località chiamata anche "Perla del Golfo dei Poeti", un tratto di costa delle Cinque Terre di Liguria.

Il suo nome forse ha origine dialettale e rimanda ai lecci, gli alberi che ricoprono i monti alle sue spalle.

La struttura del comodino Lerici è un tripode in legno massello, come un castone che regge, in cima, uno scrigno: un contenitore tondo, cinto in una fascia di pelle ad anello, al cui interno custodire cose care.

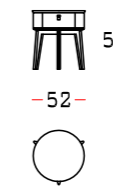

Lerici is the name of a beautiful town also known as "the Gulf of Poets's pearl", a stretch of coast of the Cinque Terre in Liguria.

Its name could have dialectal origins and refers to holm oaks, the trees that cover the mountains behind it.

The framework of the Lerici bedside table is a tripod in solid wood, like a bezel holding a casket at the top; a round container, surrounded by a leather band ring, where cherished objects are safeguarded.
